IDENTIFY THE PARTS OF SPEECH

Fill out the form below by reading the passage and identify the parts of speech listed in the form.

Life in South Asian villages is simple and closeknit. The villages are surrounded by green fields, where farmers use traditional methods to grow crops. People in these villages strongly follow old customs and traditions, and everyone knows each other well. Festivals, weddings, and other celebrations bring the community together. The local economy relies on farming and traditional crafts, showcasing the area's rich culture. Even with some modern changes, many villages still look and feel oldfashioned, with small houses and lively markets. Life in South Asian villages revolves around shared values, helping each other, and a deep connection to the land that has supported families for generations.
